Major financial decisions.
Easier to understand. Easier to explain.

Recent Canadian compliance and anti-money laundering regulations and laws, along with significant penalties, are putting pressure on businesses and increasing compliance costs and workloads. The key question is: How can a business prove suitability when it hasn't established what suitable means for the person?

4orm Finance is building integrated “counselling-centered” intelligence tools for businesses to enhance their client discovery experience. The tools allow clients to privately explore major financial decisions, model and optimize potential outcomes, and comprehend potential short-and-long term risks. This experience enhances the client’s ability to move forward with greater clarity and confidence.

4orm Finance integrates into the business’s existing applications and compliance tools, helping to reduce costs and discovery time while supporting the suitability procedure and creating an auditable record throughout the decision process.

Why invest in 4orm.

A growing business problem. A clearer workflow. A large market opportunity.

01 Growing business problem
Compliance pressure is increasing, while documentation alone still fails to show what the client understood and why the recommendation made sense.

02 Founder-product-market fit
4orm comes from direct experience in high-consequence operating systems, business building and financial decision support.

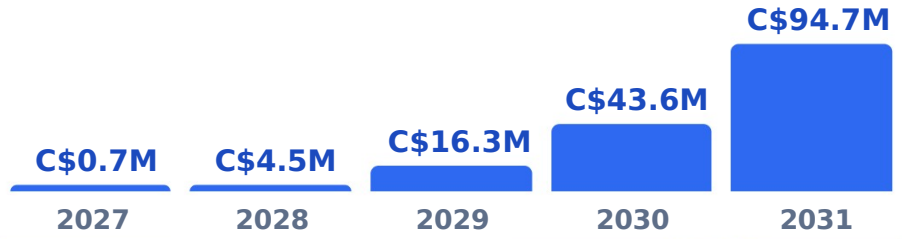

03 We understand the consumer
The founders have worked one-on-one with hundreds of people directly and supported thousands indirectly through financial decision-making, risk and behaviour change.

04 Business-first savings
4orm helps businesses reduce repeated discovery, improve suitability evidence, integrate with current tools and provide a better client value-add.

05 Built to protect people before money moves
4orm is building tools that help businesses protect people before money is ever moved, and preserve why the decision made sense.

06 Strong build and advisory support
Speer, legal counsel and experienced advisors strengthen delivery, governance and readiness for regulated clients.

Illustrative revenue path

4orm gives businesses tools to guide clients more clearly, understand them better and preserve the evidence regulators increasingly expect.
That creates savings for the business and better outcomes for the people they serve.

Base case reaches C$94.7M with approximately 3.5% penetration of the currently identified financial firm market.
